THIS WEEK'S ACTIVITY: CURLING

On March 16 2012, I went to Sydney Curling Club which is located at 619 George St, Sydney. It was my second activity for ICEAP; the first activity was SKING last Saturday. It started at 3 o'clock. It was my first time for curling. Also, 'Curling' is a very rare sport in my country, Republic of Korea, so I was very excited about being able to experience that.

I arrived there a little bit earlier than arranged time. Fortunately, I could meet some elder people who regularly enjoy curling in this club. They just got finished their game when I came in. There is a birthday party for few minutes because one of these guys has 91st birthday on that day. What a surprise that such an aged person can curl with his friends!!! I was so impressed by that situation. And my friends and I can have some coffee, piece of cakes, and small talk with them. I learned about curling from them.

Around 3 O'clock, less 20 students gather the club, so we started our activity at last. I was taught by Ralph. There are three instructors who taught us how to curl on the ice. We were able to take lessons about all of curling. ICEAP students in Sydney Curling Club got skills how to step on the ice, delivery rocks, which means curling stones, and sweep the ice surface in the pass of stone with brush, Curling Broom.

It was very nice activity. I heard that Curling has been invented from Scotland (and Nova Scotia means New Scotland). I think curling is one of the sports that represents this province. It doesn't demand high physical ability and it is a very polite game that everyone might have fun time like pocket-ball or bowling. From now on, games of curling on the Olympic might not be boring for me no more. I extremely recommend you curl while you are here.

I'm Suzan Gharbawi, president the ICEAP students' union, and I'm from Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. Now, I'm in the Bridge program in business class. As a president, I hope that I can make the students feel more comfortable in the school – helping them with their issues and adding more activities for them. Therefore, students' union is planning to do a talent show to make the students share their wonderful talents. Not only the students can participate, staffs also can join us I. I hope at that day everyone will be happy. Also, we want ICEAP to sell supplies at the cafeteria, so we are working on that.
